Rheumatism

We doubt if there is, or can be, a specific remedy for rheumatism; but thousands who have suffered its pains have been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you have failed to find relief, try this great remedy.

"I was afflicted with rheumatism twenty years. Previous to 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse, and at one time was almost helpless. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley Village, Mass.

"I had rheumatism three years, and got no relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has done great things for me. I recommend it to others." LEWIS BURBANK, Biddeford, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and [illegible] in gold." I. BARRINGER, [illegible], New York City.

THE BIRMINGHAM RIOT!

A Mob at Birmingham, Ala., Attempt to Lynch a Villian Who Murders His Daughter and Former Wife.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—Last Tuesday the body of Mamie Hawse, the little eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hawse, was found floating in the lake near this city. Mrs. Hawse was also missing from home, and it was suspected that the father and husband was accountable for the death of the little girl and the disappearance of the mother. He claimed to have been divorced from his wife and on Wednesday he was married to another woman at Columbus, Miss. That evening, with his newly made wife, he passed through the city and was arrested and placed in jail.

Saturday afternoon the body of Mrs. Hawse was found in the lake. This incensed the people and Saturday at midnight, a mob visited the jail for the purpose of lynching the prisoner. They were met and repulsed at the jail by the sheriff and an armed force. The officers fired on the crowd and three persons were killed and several wounded, but a threatened renewal of an attempt to lynch continued all day yesterday. The militia were called out.

LATEST FROM THE SCENE.

The situation is very grave to-day. Colonel Jones, commanding the troops, is reported to have said he feared violence to Sheriff Smith more than he did any further attempt to lynch Hawes. Sol Jones last evening received a letter from Governor Seay, reading: "Note what you hear about the arrest of the sheriff. According to the reports which have reached me the sheriff performed his duty. Advise me of the state of the proceedings against him, and ask him to send me any report he may decide to make by wire."

THE LAUFERTY ROBBERY.

Some Additional Particulars But no Clue to The Thieves.

The officers are entirely at sea on the Lauferty robbery and can form no idea of its perpetrators.

It seems now that Mr. Lauferty's hired man can explain how the doors came to be opened and locked. Some ten days ago, while he was sweeping out the bank office, a stranger hastly entered and said: "I lost the key to my store door. Let me have yours for a moment to see if it will fit."

The man did not know his caller, but handed the key over, and some twenty minutes later it was returned.

The idea is that in that time an impression of the key was taken and its counterpart easily reproduced. This, of course, enabled the thieves to enter the bank when Mr. Lauferty went to dinner Saturday.

Mr. L. A. Wright gives a clue to the robbers. Saturday, at noon, he went to Mr. Lauferty's bank to transact private business. He saw a man inside and supposing Mr. Lauferty there also he left to return later. His first call was at the exact time of the robbery and he alone looked at the slick rascal.

It is said that Mr. Lauferty will shortly retire from the banking business. He is very wealthy and can afford to do so.

HIGHWAY ROBBERIES.

Two Men Held up and Robbed—Thieves Rob a Pittsburg Car.

A gang of toughs seem to have struck the city during the last few days and their depredations have been committed in several localities.

This morning, a man whose name we were unable to learn, was attacked by two men near the overhead bridge, on Clay street, and a watch taken from him.

A man who is employed by Gottlieb Haller, the butcher, while on his way to work, about 4 o'clock this morning, was held up by two fellows on Holman street, near McKinnie's barn. The robbers went through his pockets, but failed to secure any booty of value.

Thieves broke into two Pittsburg cars, which were standing on the track within the city limits, and stole a large quantity of butter.

Death of Mr. D. S. Beaver.

Yesterday, at 1 o'clock, occurred the death of Mr. D. S. Beaver, one of the old citizens of Fort Wayne, at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Marion Webb, in the southern part of the city. Mr. Beaver was an old and respected citizen and at the time of his death was an elder in the Second Presbyterian church. For years he was a successful miller and built a flour mill and dam on the St. Mary's river, on South Broadway. Until its purchase by Mr. Esmond the property bore his name.

Mr. Beaver came to this county from Franklin county, Pennsylvania, in 1839, [illegible] flour, wheat, [illegible]

EXCITEMENT AT MARION.

Sheriff Jones Shot by a Horse Thief —Talk of Lynching.

Special to the Sentinel:

MARION, 3:50 p. m., Dec. 10.—The newly elected sheriff of Grant county, Mr. Robert L. Jones, while attempting to arrest a horse thief this afternoon, was fired upon by the thief and mortally wounded. The thief fired at him twice, the first shot entering the right shoulder and the second penetrating the body close by the heart. He is said to be dying. Great excitement prevails here at this hour and talks of lynching are heard from hundreds of voices. The horse thief was ordered arrested shortly after this and is now in jail. His name has not been learned. The dying man has only held his office since the election and this was his first arrest. He is very popular and much sympathy exists for him over the city.

THE BEVIER RIOT.

The Trouble is Not Settled—Incendiaries Burn a Portion of the Town.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10.—The latest advices from Bevier, Mo., are to the effect that the leaders stated that they were not disposed to question the authority of the state, but declined to surrender to the county authorities. Governor Morehouse says, before he calls out the militia, he will give the belligerents an opportunity to surrender their arms.

There was a great fire last night, destroying the greater portion of the business section of Bevier. There is no doubt the conflagration was due to incendiary causes.

SWITCHMEN STRIKE.

The Vandalia Men at Indianapolis Strike for Higher Wages.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—A number of switchmen in the employ of the Vandalia Railway Co., on branches in Clay county, are striking for an advance in pay. They demand $2.10 per day instead of $1.70. Saturday they were all discharged, after refusing to obey an order to return to work, but the men employed to take their places were frightened away. Several small lines were shut down.

He Would Accept the Ministership to England.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The Commercial Advertiser this afternoon publishes an interview with Mr. Depew, in which that gentleman states that while he would not accept a position in the cabinet he would accept the position as minister to England, should it be offered to him.

Mr. Hindel Confirmed.

The following circular, just issued, explains itself:

Mr. T. B. Hindel is appointed master mechanic of the western division of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad to take effect Dec. 10, with headquarters at Stony Island.

JOHN MACKENZIE,
Supt. Motive Power.

Approved: Lewis Williams, Gen. Supt.

Mr. Hindel will inspect the company's works between Chicago and Bellevue this week.

Train Disaster.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—The report reached this city early this morning that the Santa Fe overland train, which left here Friday, was ditched yesterday, between Peach Springs and Williams Grove, on the Arizona. A number were killed. The report has not been verified.

All Paid In.

A gentleman asks THE SENTINEL what Mr. Boltz did with the money collected for Mrs. Bouse. This receipt replies:

ANOTHER BOMB!

Is Thrown by Chicago Dynamiters—An Attempt Made to Destroy a Big Distillery.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Shortly after 6 this morning an attempt was made to destroy Shufeldt & Co.'s distillery, in the northern portion of the city, by means of dynamite. Enough facts are not yet known to justify the conclusion as to whether it is the work of anarchists, or some one who has a personal grievance against Shufeldt. The neighborhood was shaken by the tremendous explosion, breaking many panes of glass and caused people to rush into the street.

An investigation showed that a bomb had been thrown, probably from the street, into a detached warehouse, used for storing high wines in. This building was shattered. Very soon afterward, a package wrapped in paper was discoveerd lying in the street. It contained several sticks of dynamite and some fulminating caps. A fuse connected with the package showed evidence of having been lighted but had gone out prematurely.

It now appears that dynamite sticks were thrown on a low roof of the building, aiming at the sky light, directly under which are eight large tubs or vats of highly inflamable liquid. Had the dynamite sticks exploded on the sky light, the liquor would have been instantly ignited and a terrible explosion would have resulted.

THE RAILROAD BUDGET.

The News and Gossip Around the Busy Centers of the City.

Monday is always a dull day.

The Bass works pay off their employes to-morrow.

There are nineteen locomotives in the Pittsburg shops for repairs.

The Pennsylvania company will pay off its employes one week from to-day.

The wheel department at the Bass works is now rushed with work, and a number of new men have recently received employment there.

Mr. Robert Harrison, foreman of the machine department at the Pittsburg shops, was taken suddenly ill this morning, with a heart trouble, to which he is subject.

A passenger on a train from New York yesterday stepped from the overheated car to the platform and filled his lungs with the fresh, pure air. "Ah," he exclaimed, "isn't this exhilerating." "No," returned the laconic brakeman, "this is Fort Wayne."

Charles Stein, a machinist at the Bass works, met with a very severe and painful accident Saturday afternoon. He was engaged in sawing a piece of wood with a buzz saw, when, in some manner, his hand was caught. One of his fingers was taken off at the first joint, and two others were terribly mangled.

The announcement made in THE SENTINEL Saturday, that ten new locomotives would be built in the Pittsburg shops, caused a number of idle men to apply for work this morning at that establishment, and the foremen were besieged on every hand. The works have a large force at present, and but few new men will be employed now, although the force may be increased later on.

The experiment of running mogul locomotives on the vestibule trains of the Wabash is not "panning out" satisfactorily. The other morning, engine 1,203, pulling train 42, lost nearly an hour between Tilton and Andrews, and returning on train 43, the same night, she again lost time steadily. The drivers are so small that the pistons are compelled to move so swiftly the steam can not follow them, and when a certain speed is reached the engine works against herself. Besides, the locomotive steams very badly. During the winter it is likely the trains mentioned, which are often composed of ten cars, will be run in two sections.

GOSPEL SONG SERVICE.

An Interesting and Profitable Meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms.

The services at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon were led by Rev. S. A. Northrop, the pastor of the Baptist church. They partook of a song-service character and were very interesting. Pastor Northrop read the 40th psalm and followed with a brief talk and then placed the time at the disposal of the large number present for the giving of christian experience, and such remarks as they saw fit to make.

The hour was well improved, and at least a score of young men spoke, among whom were a number of new converts, who had been led to embrace a religious life within the last few weeks as a result of the revival meetings now being held by Rev. M. C. Cooper, in the St. Paul M. E. church. The meeting was a profitable one and at its close five young men rose for prayers. An interesting feature of the service was the singing, led by Mr. E. F. Yarnelle, who also by request, sang two solos, rendered in his grand manner.

The Y. M. C. A. is doing good work. This is shown at almost every Sunday afternoon meeting held in the rooms and many young men are being brought into the churches through its influences.

OTHER SERVICES.

Rev. J. A. Gallaher, of Chicago, filled the pulpit at the Third Presbyterian church yesterday, and preached able sermons both morning and evening.

The centennial anniversary of the death of Rev. Charles Wesley, the great Methodist reformer and hymn composer, was appropriately observed yesterday at the Berry Street M. E. church. Rev. D. C. Woolpert preached an able sermon, and paid a grand tribute to the religious hero whose memory all Christian denominations delight to honor.

The Baptist church was crowded to the very doors last evening. Every seat in the large audience room was filled and hundreds left the church unable to gain an admittance. A chorus of sixty voices led the singing and their grand music was soul-inspiring. Rev. Northrop was in one of his happiest moods, and preached a magnificent sermon. His church, although one of the largest in the city, is too small for his evening congregation and the Baptists are thinking seriously of extending the audience room to the sidewalk, which would give them some twenty feet more room.

A CLOSE CALL.

The Jenney Electric Light Power Station Catches Fire.

Last night a dangerous fire started in the Jenney electric light power station, located between Superior street and the Nickel Plate road, west of Harrison.

Some oil on the floor ignited from an electric spark and blazed up so fiercely that the department was called out. The night men at the works had the fire under control, however, when the firemen arrived and averted serious damage by confining the blaze to the floor.

There was no interruption to the city lights.

Death of Special Officer Snurr.

Private Watchman Stephen Snurr, whose illness was noted Saturday, died this morning at the St. Joe hospital, of typhoid fever. Mr. Snurr was a member of the Saengerbund society and a veteran soldier. Mr. Snurr was widely known and much respected. He leaves a family in destitute circumstances.

Funeral of Elder Greer.

The funeral of Rev. James Greer, presiding elder of the Warsaw district, will take place to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock at Warsaw. The remains will be brought to this city at 1:15 in the afternoon. The interment will be at Lindenwood cemetery and Fort Wayne friends are invited to meet the cortege at the depot.

WITH SOFT GLOVES.

Ed. White and One Craig Fight to a Finish Sunday Morning—Mayor Muhler to Banish the Sluggers.

The sparring bouts and wrestling matches that have flourished here in the past week are bearing fruit that will, happily, serve to put a quietus on the whole business.

The sparring match at the Academy Saturday night between Ed White and Fred Greenburg was unsatisfactory, and both men were challenged a dozen times from the audience. White made no effort to "do" Greenburg, and the initiated knew why. He was saving himself for a fight with one Craig, a young pugilist, who drifted in here broke and wanted to earn a stake.

The fight was booked for Saturday night, but the police watched every movement and shadowed the principals until almost dawn. A little matter of hours did not stop the match, for at 4 o'clock Sunday morning a select party of some twenty-five sporting men drove to a convenient resort, spread straw on the floor and under the mellow glow of candle light called time, the principals facing each other with four-ounce gloves.

Craig had the best of the fight in the first and second rounds, but this is White's trick, for he rewarded the industry by knocking Craig down in the third round. He came up groggy in the fourth round and was knocked down. He bobbed up again and this time White hit him on the jugular vein and knocked him out, winning the match and purse. The fight lasted just twelve minutes and not a drop of blood was spilled.

As soon as Mayor Muhler heard of this disgraceful business yesterday, he sat down and penned a note to the police officers, instructing them to banish pugilists and wrestlers from the city. "They bring in their wake," said the mayor, "thieves, rowdies and criminals of every sort. I will not again license the Academy unless they stop these sparring and wrestling matches and hereafter I propose to see that these fellows are committed for vagrancy."

THEIR WELCOME.

Return of Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger and His Secretary Under Consideration.

From the Cathedral pulpit yesterday, Vicar General Brammer announced that Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger, and his secretary, Chancellor Lang, were expected home Friday or Saturday, of this week.

He could not say the hour or day, for the bishop expects no public welcome, and sends no announcement of his coming. On a former return from Rome Very Rev. Father Brammer had a friend at New York to acquaint him with the movements of the bishop and in this way he could tell the time of his coming, but now no such arrangements prevail.

The arrival of the distinguished clerical party will be heralded by the Catholic church bells of the city, and to-night the officers of the various uniformed societies will meet to arrange a welcome program. The Cathedral will be decorated, and in it the bishop is expected to speak.

The Catholic Knights and the Legion propose to acquaint themselves of the bishop's coming and both societies will send uniformed delegations to Lima, O., to meet him. The Catholic Knights last evening selected the following committee: From the Cathedral, Sir Knights Killian Baker, Patrick Ryan, Dennis Monahan, Dr. E. J. McOscar; from St. Mary's church, Henry C. Berghoff, J. B. Monning, Andy Kalbacher and Louis Brames; from St. Paul's church, J. A. Spereisen, Otto Nichter and G. Grimme; from St. Peter's church, John Sulzer and J. Levanburger. President Louis A. Fox and Capt. John Houser will head this committee.

The Catholic Legion held a meeting also for similar arrangements. Mr. J. G. Noll presided, Mr. Dennis Gorman was secretary and Rev. Father O'Leary extended the invitation. The Legion then selected the following committee to meet the right reverend bishop at Lima: J. H. Rohan, Hugh Hogan, Thomas Meegan, J. H. Coolman, John Harkenreider, C. J. Sosenheimer, Nicholas Merz, J. G. Noll, P. T. Welsh, James Lowry, J. H. Franke and Dennis Gorman.

LET'S CALL A HALT.

The Academy With Its Demoralizing Influences and Brutal Exhibitions Should be Suppressed.

The Academy of Music, which was opened several weeks ago as a variety theatre, has developed into a place of amusement that is not only ruinous to the morals of the city, but a disgrace to any Christian community, and the scenes that are witnessed there almost every night, should call either for a suppression of the play house or a radical change of its methods and practices. While there may be no harm in the legitimate theatre, when properly placed on the stage, yet it may and often does degenerate into an amusement that is unfit to be seen.

The Academy has a variety theatre troupe on its boards, and, looking at it from a theatre-goers standpoint, it can be said of it that it is no worse or no better than many similar performances that have been placed on other stages in the city. So far, the troupe that appears before the footlights has preserved a reasonable amount of respectability, and a SENTINEL reporter, who has dropped into the play house several times, with a critical eye, while finding some features in the regular performance to condemn, is fair enough to say that the management in this respect have guarded themselves fairly well against public censure.

But the Academy was not content to stop there, and has recently introduced as a part of its program wrestling and sparring matches, which has had the effect of crowding its house to the very doors.

Picture two strong men bared to the waist and dressed in tights, seeking to pound each other in the face with gloved fists, while the referee, the seconds, the time keeper and the backers crowd around them on the stage and eagerly watch every movement of the men. See the audience, composed of men and boys, many of them filled with beer that is sold in the Academy, excited and mad, and cheering each advantage that is gained by one combatant in the fight over the other. Hear them shout, "Go for him," "Give him a lick between the eyes," "Pound him on the snout," "Knock his teeth down his throat," and a score of other like expressions, while the men continue their brutal fight, and you have a faint word picture of the scene that followed the regular performance last Saturday night.

Concerning this species of performance nothing but words of condemnation could be said. They are brutal and immoral and result in nothing else than the cultivation of a spirit of pugilism in the young and the old that culminates in the making of toughs, rowdies and criminals. Prize fights and sparring and wrestling matches are features of the barbaric age that should not be tolerated in the closing years of this civilized century, and yet we are promised a continuance of them at the Academy. They are filling our town with the worst class of criminals and soon we shall have a name and a fame for a "tough town" that will not be equalled in all this broad land.

But even these brutal exhibitions are not the worst features of the Academy's methods. The place has a bar attached, and as the performance progresses on the stage, a half dozen waiters pass through the house and distribute beer among the audience. Under the influence of the music from the orchestra and the surroundings, the stuff sells rapidly, and men and boys drink themselves drunk and go home at a late hour in a reeling condition. The place, by reason of its stage performance, catches a class that do not patronize the saloons, and herein lies its greatest harm.

Young men and boys, many of whom have their first glass of intoxicants to take, are drawn there, and under the influence of the temptation, that surround them, the first step in the downward road to shame, disgrace, ruin and death is taken. Boys of tender years, many of them under sixteen and some younger, are drawn to the place, and under the power of its temptations, will sooner or later fall victims to the terrible influence of rum's power.

With such a picture—and it is not overdrawn—is it not time to call a halt? The Academy should change its present methods or be suppressed by the law officers. As it exists now it is worse than a saloon—ten times over—and is doing more to undermine sobriety, virtue and morality than all the other places of vice in the city. The officers have winked at the place till now, the newspapers have remained quiet and failed to condemn it, but seeing its terrible influence for immorality grow with each night, THE SENTINEL throws down the gauntlet and asks for a change of its methods or the suppression of the place.

INFIDELITY UNSEATED.

The Lecture of Dr. G. W. Williard, at the Grace Reformed Church.

Rev. G. W. Williard, D. D., the president of Heidelberg college at Tiffin, O., delivered a lecture Friday evening at the Grace Reformed church

It was a masterly discussion of the theme and an able answer to many of the arguments that are urged by infidel thinkers against the religion of Christ. The distinguished speaker started with the fact that that every nation of antiquity and every people on the globe at the present time, worshipped some sort of a god, and were the devotees of some kind of a religion. The recognition of our Creator's existence was inborn, and as soon as reason begins to develop, the mind turns to God and recognizes Him as the Great Ruler of the universe. These recognized facts are evidence in themselves that God exists, but the doctor did not stop here in his argument. He led his hearers, step by step, through a magnificent chain of reasoning and proved the truths of Christianity and the doctrines of the Bible in such a clear and forcible manner, that conviction must have been carried to the minds of every one in his audience.

Dr. Williard is one of the most profound theologians of the Reformed church in the west. For over twenty years he has been the president of Heidelberg college, an educational institution that his abilities and untiring work has placed among the best in the country. He has grown gray in his devotion to the cause of education, but is still active in the work and every year the college, of which he is the head, sends scores of earnest, brilliant young men out into the professions and business pursuits of life. He is a grand man, and the many pleasant acquaintances he formed while here would be glad to have him return and lecture again in the city.

A CULTURED WAITER.

Fred. H. Carruth, in the New York Tribune, gives some amusing experiences with a cultured waiter from which we extract the following:

The person who thinks he can live on any less good, substantial food when he has his chair adjusted for him at each meal by a polite waiter than when he doesn't also makes a mistake. We boarded at a hotel last week where the waiter would slide the whole length of a long dining-room to adjust my chair for me, but it didn't appease the pangs of hunger I felt while waiting an hour or so for him to return with my order. I can adjust my own chair quite satisfactorily to myself when I sit down to a table. It may not suit a head-waiter who never takes off his swallow-tail coat even when he goes to bed, but I am quite well contented. A man like a head-waiter, of course, on whom nature bestowed the dignity of the full bench of the Supreme Court, may detect flaws in the way I adjust ny chair, but my way suits me. If a hotel waiter will put the time he spends in adjusting my chair and polishing an already spotless plate with a napkin into promoting the rapid transit of the bread and mashed potatoes to my neighborhood I will be better pleased.

The last waiter I encountered said he was a student in a leading New England college when in private life. I asked him if he was taking Greek and he said he was, and went on to tell me something about nouns and verbs in the Greek language. I was interested, of course, and asked several questions about them. He made the subject quite clear, and when he paused I asked him why we didn't have nouns and verbs in the English language. He gave me a long, piercing look and I saw a shadow pass over his young face. He found his voice subsequently and spoke to me quite earnestly for some little length of time on the subject of English nouns and verbs. I found that we did have them in our language already. He said I was using them right along, and mentioned prepositions and adjectives and a whole lot of other things whose names have escaped me. I said that if nouns and verbs were already at large in the language that that knocked my first intention of introducing them into our speech and making a big thing out of it. He gave me another pained look and said it did. I heard him telling another fellow traveler along the thorny path of knowledge about me. He got behind a column and held his hand up to his mouth and said there was one of those rich fellows over there who didn't know anything. Probably that fellow, he said, could draw his check for a million or two any day, but his education had been neglected. He didn't know the first thing about the rudiments of the English grammar. And worse than that, he had asked foolish questions about Greek. It was surprising how a man with my defective education could go on and pile up money. If he was a millionaire he rather thought he would go to a night school a while if he didn't do anything else.

"Trust Him Not, He is Fooling Thee"

Beware of the druggists, who, by fraud and wile,
Your better sense and judgment would beguile;
Who for trifling gain will trick and cheat,
And foist on you a worthless counterfeit;
His glib words heed not, 'though he does proclaim
The substitute "as good" or "just the same";
Insist on your intent, or you will rue
The disappointment certain to ensue.
Remember always, Pond's Extract is to be obtained only in bottles of Pond's Extract Company's own putting up (buff wrappers, with landscape trade mark) and in no other way. Anything offered you not so put up is a counterfeit.

SMITHVILLE SMILES.

Coffee is going up and down in the market. It will soon have no grounds to stand on.

Smithville has a colored woman who is, according to good authority, 109 years old. She knows as much about George Washington as she does about washing.

An exchange says it knows a grocer who is supposed to be the honestest man in the world. He chases the flies off the beam of his scales before he allows them to balance.

A correspondent wants us to publish the stock law again. We have already published it twice, and as we have lost all our cattle we have no more interest in it.

Georgia is said to be the poor man's paradise. It is also the best camping ground that a rich man ever struck. Its soil is the richest, its products the rarest, its women the fairest, and the Smithville News only a dollar a year.

We are willing to print all interesting communications that may be sent us, but we must be able to read them, as we just half way understand the English language and have no experience with any other.

The poet and philosopher are invested with a halo of romance by the dazzled maidens of the district in which they reside and make a great sensation for a time, but its the steady-going soap-boiler who eventually gets the marriage license and the girl.

When the editor gets at a loss for an item he generally goes to the window and stares out at the street. Suddenly a dog comes tearing round the corner with a can tied to him. Then the editor laughs gleefully, until he recognizes the can as his own and sees the office boy behind the dog, and then—oh, well, we will close the doors of the Smithville News upon the tragedy.—Smithville (Ga.) News because she saw that he had ceased to love her. Her beauty had faded, her former high spirits had given place to a dull lassitute. What had caused this change! Functional derangement; she was suffering from those ailments peculiar to her sex. And so their two young lives drifted apart. How needless, how cruel! Had she taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription she might have been restored to health and happiness. If any lady reader of these lines is similarly afflicted, let her lose no time in procuring the "Favorite Prescription." It will give her a new lease of life. Sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, of perfect satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. See guarantee on bottle wrapper.

SPEECH of touch towards others should be sparingly used; for discourse ought to be as a field, without coming home to any man.—Lord Bacon.

Electric Belt Free.

To introduce it and obtain agents the undersigned firm will give away a few of their $5 German Electric Belts invented by Prof. Van der Wende, Pres. of the N. Y. Electrical Society, (U. S. Pat. 357,647) a positive cure for Nervous Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Power, &c. Address Electric Agency, Box 178, Brooklyn, N. Y. Write to them to-day. 7-deod-45t-weow-15t.

IT is stated that two-thirds of the wood used in paper-making is waste, though experiments indicate that this can be profitably converted into fertilizers.

Catarrh Cured.

A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a recipe which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self addressed stamped envelope to Prof. J. A. Lawrence, 88 Warren St., New York City, will receive the recipe free of charge. O13deod4m-weow15t

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to take. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. mar-18-1y

INJUSTICE TO RAILWAYS.

The public took relatively small risks in railway building. The city of Chicago never subscribed a dollar to railway construction, yet witness its enormous obligations to railroads. The public clamored for railroads until they got them. Town, county, and State bonuses were offered to secure their construction, but the roads once secured, legislation, forgetful of their benefits, restricts them as it restricts no other ventures, until at present the rights of a railway seem narrowing to those of protest and loss. The Interstate Commerce law enables large shipping interests to concentrate their traffics, depress rates, and induce a senseless railway strife from which they reap harvests without a defensive remedy to the railways by pools.—Forum.

Tone up the system and improve the appetite by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health, and relief from suffering, by the use of this great blood purifier, when all other means failed.

MASON & HAMLIN

The Cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin Organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequaled excellence of their organs, the fact that at all of the great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. Illustrated catalogues $22 TO $900. free.

Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are superior to all others. They recognize the high excellence achieved by other leading makers in the art of piano building, but still claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1883, and now known as the "MASON & HAMLIN PIANO STRINGER," by the use of which is secured the greatest possible purity and refinement of tone, together with greatly increased capacity for standing in tune and other important advantages.

COSTLY ALUMINIUM.

Some Interesting Things About It and Its Production.

[Springfield Union.]

Aluminium, as the discoverer spelt it, or aluminum, as it is often carelessly pronounced, is, like all mythical and expensive elements, vastly overrated. It tarnishes very rapidly, only, the rust being white, it is not very offensive. It cannot be used for anything where it comes in contact with salt; a pot of aluminium would be perforated by the salt of common soup if only used for a few months; spoons would be rough and perforated in the space of a year; nothing exposed to salt air or water could be made of aluminium. When pure its greatest tensile strength is only a little more than that of ordinary zinc, that is only about one-half that of steel. Its hardness is about that of soft copper, and it is just about as nasty to turn, file, and drill as copper, without having the strength, pliability, and malleability of copper. Its conductive power for electricity for the same weight is that of copper, hence telegraph and telephone wires might be made of it, if both have the same price—sixteen cents per pound. Its peculiar chemical properties preclude the use of soft solder with the usual soldering fluids; it can be soldered, but at the points of contact, and solder aluminium becomes very weak and unreliable. Its peculiar melting point (600 degrees C.) precludes the use of hard solder (melting point 700 degrees C.). It is very sensitive to impurities Half of 1 per cent. of silicon, or iron renders it as brittle as pottery ware.

As clay banks contain about aluminium 11 per cent., silicon 23 per cent. iron 4 per cent., the balance being water and oxygen, it may be seen by any chemist, considering the chemical properties of the impurities, that aluminium cannot be isolated pure from common clay for less than $2 a pound, this being the lowest price of the chemicals needed, vessels, coal, etc., for this purpose. If only as much as ½ of 1 per cent. of silicon remains it cannot be rolled and drawn into wire, but silicon and aluminium are very hard to separate completely. There is no market to speak of for aluminium at $2 a pound Most of the aluminium now used is beaten into white foil and used for silvering sign letters, etc. It is used for opera-glasses, galvanic-needle indicators, and a few scientific purposes. It has been a source of great revenue to the chemical credulity and mysticism upon moneyed non-chemists. Probably fifty companies are existing in the United States by which some sharp-witted chemists obtains a living and the investors a large amount of hope at first, but considerable experience later. I do not believe that one pound of aluminium has yet been made in the United States that has not cost the maker at least $500. The only factories are in France, and if they sell it for $15 a pound it certainly costs them $14 to make and sell it. Beware of aluminium inventions.

RAILROAD STATIONS IN GERMANY.

The railroad stations all over Germany are models of convenience and pretension. The smallest local train on a German railway receives a degree of consideration and honor that would stagger the engineers of the Chicago limited. The railroads are run entirely by the Government, and everything connected with them shows the impress of military rule. A letter from Berlin says:

The stations are surrounded by small parks, in which there are fountains, flowers, and artistically-arranged hedges. The station building is often the most pretentious one in the town, and there is usually attached to it a large restaurant with several waiters in the conventional claw-hammer coats. Bread walks made of granite and marble and relieved from monotony by designs in mosaic stretch along on either side, and there is an air of spick and span brightness about everything in sight. As the train draws into the station the waiters stand in an orderly row at the entrance to the dining-room. They have all been soldiers—every man in Germany has served a number of years in the army, and they stand in a military attitude with their hands at their sides and their chins up. Directly in front of the main entrance stands the captain of the station. His rank is indicated by a red cap. His uniform is exceedingly showy, and often becoming—for the men as a rule are stalwart and well formed. He wears high-heeled boots, dark-blue trousers, relieved by a red stripe, a doubled-breasted military frock coat, with a gold belt and rows of brass buttons. Ranged behind are the guards, who are also in uniform, but whose caps are dark blue. After the train comes to a halt, the chief guard jumps to the ground and salutes the station master. Then the other men step forward, and the work of loading and unloading the train goes on with conventional Teutonic stolidity. It is the duty of one of the guards to walk along the train and rub all the dust from the door handles and other brass work, so that in the course of the journey the metal becomes brilliantly polished. When the train is ready for departure the guards salute the station master again, and he takes a whistle from his belt and blows it twice. Upon this another guard, who is stationed at the further end of the platform, rings a huge bell three times, and then, with another salute by way of farewell, the train starts on its journey. FOOD FOR EVERYBODY.

The editor of the Cedartown (Ga.) Guardian thus addressed his readers: Bright and breezy, with sails all spread and our colors nailed to the mast, we bear down upon you this morning.

Here is news for the one who wants to keep up with the times; social chitchat for the gossip lover; politics for the public minded; facts and fancies for the farmers; fun for the frolicsome, and pathos for the poetical.

It is chuck full of readable matter, and he must be an unappreciative cuss who fails to be amused and entertained, instructed and interested, by perusing the columns of the dandiest weekly, in the crackingest town, in Georgia.

The children cry for it and the old folks are puckering up their mouths for a regular booboo because they haven't got it.

Along next spring when you get bilious and wake up in the morning feeling swell-eyed and hateful, this paper will come to you with its sides bulging out with laugh and song, and you will grin so loud and so wide that you will have to carry an umbrella to keep the sun from shining down your throat and warping your ribs.

We don't mean to claim that this is an humorous paper, still it is a numerous paper, after all, but there are a heap of solemn features connected with it. (We put this in to catch the hypochondriacs who don't know any better.)

There's many a laugh that sounds wildly hilarious, that, if you but knew it, has as discordant a ring as where some unseen hand strikes the cold iron around a tomb.

We will take almost anything, except contumely or cussing, for subscription. Corn, cotton, potatoes, syrup, cattle, hogs, horses, farm lands, city lots, or general merchandise. Come in and see us whether you want the paper or not, for we are worth looking at. Then you might give us some valuable hints and suggestions as to the best way to run a paper.

Now, we hope you feel better. We are done, and you can go ahead with your rat killing, but don't forget that the Guardian is your friend and will love you when you're old and ugly and everybody else hates you.

AN OVERSIGHT THAT COST $10,000.

In New Orleans, in the year 1880 there was a large commission house on Tchoupatoulas street in which three men were interested, one of whom had exclusive control of the business, while the other two lived in Galveston. The manager of the business, whom we will call Mr. Gregory, had $10,000 invested with the firm.

Gregory was an inveterate poker player, and, although married, spent most of his nights at the card-table.

One morning the book-keeper and cashier of the firm was notified by a bank that Mr. Gregory had given a check for $10,000. The partners in Galveston were notified, and they came to New Orleans. Mr. Gregory was asked to explain, and he told the following story:

"I was playing poker, and on the first deal I held three queens and an ace and a king. I discarded the ace and king and caught the other queen. As four aces and four kings could not be out, my four queens was an invincible hand. The betting reached $10,000 when my opponent called. I showed the four queens and he showed four kings. I was, of course, astonished and stated that it was very strange when I had discarded a king. The discards were looked through, and there with my discarded ace was a jack. In my haste I had mistaken the jack for a king, and the oversight cost me $10,000."

Mr. Gregory was told that he would have to withdraw from the firm, but if he would continue to manage the business a salary of three thousand dollars a year would be payed to him, provided he quit playing poker. He accepted the offer. Next morning he was missing, and afterwards was found at the club-rooms playing draw-poker. He had been playing all night. The business of the firm was immediately closed up, and Gregory secured a position in another commission house. He never quit playing poker, and is probably still "shoving the pasteboard," if he is still living. —Atlanta Journal.

HOW I SUFFERED

Seventeen Years From a Skin Disease. Could not Walk or Dress. A Mass of Disease From Head to Foot. Cured in Eight Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

At the age of three months a rash (which afterwards proved to be eczema or salt rheum) made its appearance on my face. A physician was called. He said teething was the cause; he prescribed some cooling medicine, but the sores spread to my ears and head. Another M. D. was called. He professed to know all about the case; called it "King's Evil," and prescribed gunpowder, brimstone and lard mixed into a salve, but the disease continued. They could not do anything with it. Another prescribed borax, water and flour; another, linseed poultices. None of them did me any good at all, but made me worse. The disease continued unabated; it spread to my arms and legs, till I was laid up entirely, and from continually sitting on the floor on a pillow my limbs contracted so that I lost all control of them, and was utterly helpless. My mother would have to lift me out and into bed. I could get around the house on my hands and feet, but I could not get my clothes on at all, and had to wear a sort of dressing gown. My hair had all matted down or fallen off, and my head, face and ears were one scab, and I had to have a towel on my head all the time in the summer to keep the flies off. My parents consulted a prominent physician and surgeon here in Chicago (the other physicians before mentioned were of Dundas and Hamilton, Canada). He said he could do nothing for me. He wanted to cut the sinews of my legs, so that I could walk; but I would not let him, for if I did get better I would have no control of them.

The disease continued in this manner until I was seventeen years old, and one day in January, 1879, I read an account in the Tribune, of your Cuticura Remedies. It described my case so exactly that I thought, as a last resort, to give them a trial.

When I first applied them I was all raw and bleeding, from scratching myself, but I went asleep almost immediately, something I had not done for years, the effect was so soothing.

In about two weeks I could stand straight, but not walk, I was so weak, but my sores were nearly well. As near as I can judge the Cuticura Remedies cured me in about six or eight weeks, and up to this date (i. e. from January, 1879, to January, 1887) I have not been sick in any way, or have had the least signs of the disease reappearing on me. Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing the human voice, the mind,—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently assailed by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Radical Cure has won the hearty approval of thousands, it is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppresive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

TAR-OID

NATURE HAS NO BETTER REMEDY

Than this New Compound of Tar for Wounds, Burns, Sores, Piles, Salt Rheum, Eczema, and Coughs, Croup, Scrofula, Ulcers, Varicose Veins, Bronchitis, and Consumption.

TAR-OID must not be confounded with the cheap remedies which are prepared on the theory that Skin Diseases are caused by impure blood, which is not true. They have their cause in a want of vital action in the skin. TAR-OID restores this action, hence it cures every form of Skin Disease, also sores, burns, etc. It is soothing and wonderfully healing—gratifying results follow in every case. It is harmless and can be used with perfect safety by any one. It is superior to all other remedies. There is positively nothing else like it.

TAR-OID is a sure cure for piles. It never fails. We warrant a cure or refund the money. It gives immediate relief. It is perfectly safe, yet powerful in its action.

"The Gladstone" LAMP

is the finest lamp in the world. It gives a pure, soft, brilliant, white light of 85 candle power,—a marvelous light from ordinary oil! Nobody ever supposed such a light was possible from Kerosene oil; yet it is there, and

Seeing is Believing

A "wonderful lamp" it is in all respects. It never needs trimming, never smokes nor breaks chimneys, never "smells of the oil;" no gumming up, no leaks, no sputtering, no climbing of the flame, no annoyance of any kind, and cannot explode. And then, beside all these advantages, think of a lamp giving a clear, white light, 10 to 20 times the size and brilliancy of any ordinary house lamp!

The Gladstone is made of high-grade, hard rolled metal (all parts interchangable), and in elegant designs for Dining or Parlor Table, the Study, Drawing-room, Hall or Chamber. Finished in either Gold bronze, Nickel or Antique bronze. Every home should have it.

Illustrated price list will be sent you on receipt of a postal card. Staple lamps at wholesale prices, with or without porcelain shade, carefully boxed and sent by express to any part of the country.

Evidently the jolly old soul lingered long at the departments located west of the center of the store on the street floor. He must have unloaded his team here and we think "gone up" the elevator.

Such a bewildering, glittering array of Holiday novelties as are here! This Sentinel would not hold a half of the words needed to a partial description. Our advice is: "Go and see; then go again." You will not need to be told the third time to go; we are assured you will be attracted thither.

Visit their linen handkerchief counter; see those delicate, dainty, sheer cambrics. Beauties! Note that lot of edged and embroidered corners, and the low prices!

We have heard people say (some of them call themselves merchants,) "It does not pay to advertise." Root & Co. seem to think it does pay, from the way they use this column in this paper. They assure us that since they told the public of the offering of Henriettas, which bagan on last Monday morning, there has not been an hour of the business day when there were not customers buying dresses of those beautiful fabrics and each day showed an increase of the appreciation of the bargains being offered.

Have you seen them?

Charley Goodman has a new museum in the city.

H. J. Remmert left for Ashtabula, O., last evening.

Judge A. A. Chapin is at home from New York city.

Mr. C. L. Olds went to St. Paul, Minn., last evening.

Mrs. Will McKinnie and baby returned from Chicago Saturday evening.

A Nickel Plate passenger train cut Anthony Robinson's foot off at Fostoria the other night.

W. B. Nye, F. B. Crosby, J. A. Dennis and J. A. Hauthorn, of Toledo, were guests at the Rich yesterday.

Rev. John G. Rettig, president of the German Reformed orphans' home, preached at Huntington yesterday.

The M. E. churches throughout the country observed yesterday as the centennial anniversary of the death of Charles Wesley.

The city council will convene in regular session to-morrow night. The bid of the Journal company for the city printing is the only matter of serious importance before it.

The Huntington Herald recounts the arrest in that city of Ed. Freel, who escaped from jail in this county. The man, it is said, was serving a light sentence when he got out, and he might as well be left out. His brother was arrested the other day for grand larceny, at Huntington

R. M. Lockhart, general superintendent of the state fair grounds, has been appointed general lecturer, by the state board, to organize Farmers' institutes. He has arranged to hold institutes in each county in the state during the winter and spring, and the first is set for the 19th and 20th insts., at Anderson.

A telegram from Anderson, Ind., says that for some months the people near the large forests, in Duck Creek township, in the northern part of that county, have been living in mortal terror of some strange, wild animal, which could occasionally be seen and heard, and was supported to be a panther, which escaped from a show near Fort Wayne, last summer. The other evening it attacked John Martin, a farmer.

The Indianapolis News soliloquizes in this way: "The decision of Judge Olds in the case of the city of Fort Wayne and the Telegraph company, the gist of the affair being the city's removal of obstructing telegraph poles, is another lesson, and a very impressive one to the city authorities, against their loose grants to companies of privileges that may be made a serious annoyance or injury to private as well as public interests. The telegraph poles were a nuisance there as they are here and everywhere, but the Telegraph company 'had the drop,' so to speak, on the city, and when the latter interfered with the sacred abomination the former presented its charter grant like a revolver and the court held the grant good. Indianapolis is suffering a quadruple punishment right now for the folly of her rules in the past times, in granting company charters as carelessly as street appropriations."

Hon. A. P. Edgerton will remain at his home in this city until after the holidays.

The county commissioners devoted themselves to miscellaneous business to-day.

Mr. John Dreibelbiss is notified that the government approves his pulley patent.

Miss Ida Kellogg left for Chicago to day to profit by her musical accomplishments.

The Fruit House will be open to night and to-morrow night on account of pay day.

Dr. W. H. Myers went to Rome City to-day to perform a dangerous surgical operation.

The Fort Wayne Transit and Storage company was incorporated with the secretary of state.

Street Commissioner O'Brien will put a layer of gravel on Berry street and improve the road bed.

Dr. J. M. Dinnen returned from Chicago yesterday and reports Mrs. C. D. Gorham improving slowly.

Miss Susie Colerick is very low at her home on East Berry street. The lady has been ill for a year and grew worse last night.

Henry Bach, Pete Koehlinger, John Adams, Chas. Anderson and Geo. Dolin were fined for drunkenness by the mayor this morning.

The funeral of Miss Elma Durfee took place to-day and was very largely attended. The young lady had a wide circle of friends and her early death is a sad one.

Cards have been received in the city announcing the marriage of Edgar J. Ward and Hattie M. Smith, of Carthage, Mo. Mr. Ward formerly lived in this city and his divorced wife resides here now.

Mr. S. H. Joseph, in advance of "Lost in New York" is in the city, arranging for his great play Friday and Saturday next. Mr. Joseph is one of the best known theatrical men on the road and a pleasant gentleman.

Col. O. L. Perry, of this city, and Mr. T. A. Stuart, of Lafayette, have been threatened by "White Caps" for their connection with the Western Union Telegraph company. The postal card was probably penned by a wag.

A telegram from Peru, Ind., reads: "Probably one of the largest remaining tracts of timber in Indiana was sold today by H. J. Tillett. The area embraced 200 solid acres and was a magnificent forest. Eleven thousand dollars were paid therefor. Fort Wayne parties were the purchasers."

Theodore Zelt has been given a permit to build a one story frame house on lot 14, College addition to cost $600; C. F. Krudop to bulld a one story frame house on lot 28, Hanna & Fisher's addition to cost $400; Mary Bunday to build a one story frame house on lot 29, Lillie's addition to cost $500.

The St. Paul's Lutheran congregation yesterday awarded the contract for a heating apparatus for their new church to Rickardson, Boynton & Co., of Chicago, for $1,300. The organ comes from C. Barkow, of Salem, O., for $3,900 and the stained window glass to A. H. Wallace, of St. Louis, for $2,500.

The Nickel Plate road never had such a rush of freight business as it has at present. The very efficient yard master, Mr. S. A. Grable, assisted by Yard Foreman Lancaster and Chief Clerk Fallon made up and recorded thirty-five freight trains per day during the last week and sent them out on time behind locomotives promptly furnished by W. S. Miller, the general foreman. The freight business amounts almost to a blockade.

The mere announcement of the appearance of Nellie McHenry, the queen of refined comedy, at the Masonic Temple to-morrow evening is sufficient in itself to crowd this place to suffocation, for the simple fact that Miss McHenry is a decided favorite with all classes in this city, and it is esteemed a real holiday feast to see her in any character she chooses to assume. The dashing and captivating Nellie will appear on this occasion in her most bewitching role of Dolly Dashwood, in the hilariously funny musical comedy entitled "Three of a Kind," a play that has been, and is, pronounced the ne plus ultra of all plays. Although Miss McHenry is the planet around which all the other bright light regularly revolve, the success of the play does not entirely depend upon her acting, singing, dancing, etc., for she is supported by the strongest company ever connected with this organization.

CHANCELLOR LANG!

He Writes a Most Interesting Letter From Rome and Pictures Anew the Incidents of Travel and Features at the Vatican.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Dwenger and Chancellor Lang, are now on the ocean and will arrive in Fort Wayne next Friday evening. Apropos to their coming this letter from Father Lang to a personal friend in this city, with permission to publish in THE SENTINEL, will interest:

ROME, Italy, Nov. 26, 1888.

From the Belgian state into the German country, and thence into Switzerland one encounters the French language and the German, but so soon as he travels through Italy he encounters another tongue. By using French and Latin he may succeed quite considerably in making himself understood, yet there is always a halt of some sort in trying to carry on a conversation with Italians unless one knows the language thoroughly. In the hotels and in some of the stores one encounters employes who speak English or French or German. But at railway stations, on trainways, and with cab drivers, it is almost necessarry to have some knowledge of Italian.

In handling the money of different countries one meets in England the shilling and pound. The shilling is almost the same as our American quarter of a dollar. In Belgium, France and Switzerland, it is the franc of 100 centimes (pronounced saunteem.) The gold coin of England is good money, and readily accepted anywhere on the continent. The franc of Belgium, Switzerland and France are all good in Italy, but Italy's paper money (gold is very rare, at a premium, and not in current circulation) is not accepted outside of its own country. The Italian lira of 100 centesimi is about the value of twenty cents in our money. In Germany the monetary unit is the mark of 100 pennies.

On the continent the measure is the metre, kilometre, &c. For instance the distance between places is given in kilometre. A metre is equal to 3 feet, 3¼ inches. A kilometre is equal to ⅝ of a mile. Thus 10 kilometres being 6¼ miles. In purchasing goods it is always by the metre. Thus a metre is not quite a yard, 12 yards being about 11 metres.

In weights, purchases for instance in avourdupois, one gramme is equal to about 15½ grains. A kilogram is about 2 pounds. Such are some of the changes one perceives after leaving home, and they give him an occasion of recalling the lessons of his schooldays in arithmetical tables.

Travel on most European railways is divided into first, second and third class departments, and fares charged accordingly. First class rates are a trifle higher in most of Europe than our regular rates in America, at three cents a mile, with Pullman fares added.

Thus far, with all the improvements added in the coaches of the railways of Europe in latter days, I have found that travel in America in our ordinary, or even in our accommodation trains, is by all odds superior in every way, except that there is not that seclusiveness, to which, I learn, Europeans are greatly given when traveling. The apartments in most coaches are fitted to accommodate eight or ten persons. You enter at the side of the coach, are locked in, and there you are supposed to stay, subject to whatever discomforts may come upon a person during a long journey of six to twelve hours. Endowed, however, with forethought somewhat of the style, (which is quite occasionally an almost indispensible accomplishment in these parts) of "I am Mr. Barnes of New York," one can succeed to avoid some unpleasant features of the route. In England, at the various stations where the train halts, lunch in baskets is offered at the car window or can be telegraphed for. This is a rare occurrence on the continent, and it is less rare that a train stops anywhere for dinner.

Since entering Italy, the trip has been through groves of the olive tree, the lemon, the orange, and upon the table-lands, a farming country of rare fruitfulness, well cultivated, and so far as the eye can see, the whole combination forms a picturesque scenery of wonderful beauty. Coming over the Apenines one sees much of a stony formation, and barren land, but wherever soils cover the mountain side it is invariably cultivated. High up on many of these hill tops of the lower Apenines are Italian towns which no railway can ever reach.

In the cities that I have been, Milan, Venice, Ancona, Rome, there is an activity among the people that one scarcely looks for after the idea that has been generally conveyed in writings about Italy. Business men are very enterprising everywhere. People who build houses, mechanics in various pursuits, are busy everywhere. Railroad shops, section men, hod carriers, teamsters, scavengers, all of them pursuing their work eagerly. When one bears in mind the very meagre wages these people get for their hard work in the various branches named, then calls them a lazy people, he does them an injustice. Indeed, to say the Italians are a lazy people, is an untruth. Their work is in every case done substantially and, as stated, their wages are small. The following figures of earnings which I have taken [illegible] per month; servant girls, from $2 to $3 and $3.50 per month; section men, $12 and watchmen (on railway) $10.50 per month; passenger train hands $18 to $20 and $24 per month; locomotive engineers get $60 per month and gain what they can save in coal, and in proportion as they keep to time table.

Even though prices for some articles are cheaper here thanin America it is very plain that wages are exceeding low when compared to the cost of living, the high prices for instance of meat and of all breadstuffs. No inferences need here be made. They are very plain indeed, when the density of the population too is taken into consideration. The figures above given incline entirely in favor to the home pride of my informant and could really be safely quoted lower.

Many of these people live on scanty means, much more so than some of our American tramps. I saw a few days ago where men were making and carrying mortar, who for their dinner bought a few boiled chestnuts and a loaf of dry bread. They were permitted to steep their bread in the water in which the chestnuts had been boiled. I say it with much pleasure that I have not yet found either a lazy man or an idler, nor have I encountered any of the specimens of the American tramp, and I dare say it has been a continual point of observation on my part since coming into Italy to learn the truth or falsity of this sweeping charge that the Italians are a lazy people, and I fail to find that such is the case. They are industrious to a greater degree than some people of climes not so warm as Italy.

The system at one time in vogue in America of putting a revenue stamp on a "receipt," note, cigar, etc., etc., is carried to a greater extent to-day in Italy. Even bread is taxed. The announcements on the bill boards have a revenue stamp upon them. Paper money is not on a par with gold; Italy's debt, I am informed, is twenty-two million dollars. The municipal debt of Rome is forty million dollars, and they are now trying to borrow ninety million dollars additional, and her liabilities and particularly the interests are in many instances becoming burdensome. Whether it is true or not, the charge is made that Italy's soldiers are very poorly fed. Everything brought in the city, vegetables, wines, raw material, garments—everything is taxed. Tax on breadstuffs is very high.

During my wanderings in the Eternal City it has been a pastime for me to look upon the ruins that remain of the old Roman Forum. Some of the great pillars still stand, whilst portions of mortar work is well bound together, and arches too that have buffled the vicissitudes of 2,000 years. The first or earliest known application of the arch in Rome constructed for the drainage of the Forum is still doing service.

Rome has an abundance of fountains, playing all the day and night. For instance, the Fountain di Trevi, erected against a palace, in 1762, having in the central niche an immence statue of Neptune, on the left of this, one representing Health, and on the right another representing Fertility. The material is of stone, and in front is a very large stone basin. The water was first conducted to the Pantheon by M. Agrippa in the year 27 before Christ, by a subterranean channel, fourteen miles in length, for his baths. Before the present fountain was built, in 1453, Pope Nicholas V. conducted the main stream of the water hither, and from its three outlets it has the name of Trevi. It yields daily upwards of 13,000,000 cubic feet of water, perhaps the best in Rome.

Something now about the Colosseum, originally called the Flavian Amphitheatre: It is no doubt one of the most stupendous structures of the world, and certainly the largest theatre ever erected. It was completed by Titus in the year 80, and contained seats for 87,000 spectators. During and after the fourteenth century it was regarded as a kind of quarry. Popes and the nobility took material from it and built palaces. Benedict XIV (1740-58) was the first to protect it from further demolition. Pius VII, Leo XII and Pius IX have averted the imminent danger of the fall of the ruins by erecting huge buttresses where the walls had been broken. Statistics, said to be trustworthy, give the external circumfesence of this elliptical structure at 576 yards, nearly one-third of a mile; the long diameter, 205 yards; the shorter, 170 yards; the arena, 98 yards by 58 yards, and the height, 156 feet. Above the arena rise the tiers of seats, intersected by steps and passages, most of which are now in ruins and parts only accessible. Under the arena and adjacent to the fountains of the inner wall were chambers for the wild beasts.

From these topics of ancient days permit me to pass to other subjects. Last Sunday a week ago, the festival of St. Charles Borromeo, was a great day at the church of the same name. This is the church attended by fashionable Rome. At high Mass the choir, all male voices, sang Mercedante's composition. The falsetto was very fair, whilst the mezzo soprano was pleasing, the tenor was excellent and the basso a wonderful voice. The soprano was Mustafa, who at one time was a prodigy in Rome. He is growing too far into years to be recokned first-class, yet he is appreciated. A bishop celebrated the Mass, whilst a cardinal occupied the throne.

At St. John Lateran, last Thursday, the feast of the dedication, Vespers were celebrated by a cardinal. Here again a musical treat was given by the choir, under the direction of the great composer, Capocci. The leading soprano parts were rendered by Moreschi, a young man twenty-four years of age. His voice is sweet, and has considerable volume, though he does not take an extraordinarily high voice. If one did not see him, but only hearing him, he might think he were listening to Miss Kellogg. Moreschi is a great favorite in the Eternal City. Mustafa is a tall and heavy set man with a small head and very small face; he has a feminine appearance in his countenance. Young Moreschi is not so tall, but is chunky, and he, too, has a small face. The organ voluntary during the elevation in all churches that I have here attended are, though low, exceedingly sweet, the organ rarely being quiet at this interval. Some of our American enthusiasts, in their efforts at what they call reform in music, might listen to Rome's productions in her churches with a benefit to their ideas.

St. Peter's church, the grandest of all in the world, grand in design, in stupendous workmanship, and in size as well as completion and decorations, is too great an edifice to be written of in a letter.

The Vatican palace, the largest in the world, possesses twenty courts, and comprises eleven thousand halls, chapels, saloons, and private apartments. By far the greater number of these are occupied by collections, galleries of art, etc., a comparatively small part of the building being set apart for the papal court.

We have very fine weather here; such as you have at the middle of September, except that after 5 o'clock the atmosphere is chilly.

Were my letter not so unreasonably lengthy, a line should be added of other items that might inserest you, but I forbear until some other occasion.

JOHN F. LANG.

The mortality among children the past month has been enormous. Diphtheria is now the destroying angel. Let all well-meaning parents protect their helpless little ones, and always keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.
